Client Newsletter - Year-End Planning

Retirement plan contributions made before the filing deadline can still reduce taxable income for the prior year. Review your plan limits with your advisor before making a deposit.

Business owners should gather mileage logs and receipts now. Records kept during the year are far easier to support than estimates prepared at filing time.

Estimated tax payments for the fourth quarter are due in January. A missed payment can result in a penalty even when a refund is expected later.

Charitable gifts of appreciated stock may offer a larger benefit than cash. Ask us to review the holding period and fair value before you transfer shares.
